

Contextualization 1

Analysis: Lit - Paired Passage

Contextualization: Framing

This paper scores a 1 for framing because there is no attempt to frame the argument. The reader does not know who Luke is, what war he is referring to, where this takes place, or what texts are being considered.

Contextualization: Context

This paper scores a 1 for context because there is no attempt made to contextualize the evidence. It is difficult to tell what is evidence since most of the writing is vague and general and any possible evidence is paraphrased (being, “under-age for war,” and that “the bird brought the letter saying that the war was over early”). Regardless, if these are pieces of evidence, there is no attempt to contextualize them.

Essay: Lit - Paired Passage

Lukes perspective at the beggining was scared and upset. Luke’s scared and he’s under-age for war, but still going. Luke was stern and he knew he could’ve prevented this from happening. In the beggining, luke was worried and regretful.

Lukes perspective at the end was happy and relieved. Luke’s happy and he got to go home. Lukes relieved. The war was finally over. Also, the story said that the bird saved many of people. Lukes perspective at the end was joyful and excited.

The birds made him feel better. The bird made Luke feel better when he/she brought the letter saying that the war was over early. The birds impact on Luke was that the was the cause of making Luke feel relived.