Term: "Accurate, General Background"

Definition:

Enough information is provided so that a reader who is not familiar with the text or content would be able to follow the argument and understand the sub-arguments. This is done in as concise a way as possible and the giving of extraneous information is avoided.