Term: "Content Language"

Definition:

Content language includes words that are specific to the content being written about. If a scholar is writing about analogies, this term should be used correctly. This is even truer for scholars writing about historical events, as terms associated with those historical events should be used correctly.