

Term: “Third Person”

Definition:

The author does not refer to him or herself and instead uses pronouns like he , she, or they not I, me, or we. Third person writing gives authority to an author’s writing. Instead of saying “I think”, the writer simply states what he thinks.