2. Discussion of 2020-21 School Reopening Plan

Dacia Toll reviewed the draft plans for the upcoming 2020-21 school year and engaged the board in a discussion about their feedback and questions, especially around the strength and vulnerabilities in the plans, how to address anxiety of staff about returning and how to support students and families who most need in-person school.

The draft plans are influenced by research from public health experts, guidance from local authorities, surveys of students, families and staff, and lessons from other districts around the world who have reopened.

Each of the plans begins with the following guiding principles:

1. Safety first
2. Family choice
3. Prioritize our youngest scholars
4. Flexibility
5. Strong socioemotional support

Under the AF draft plan, families will be able to choose whether they want their children to learn remotely or in-person and AF is committed to making both options excellent. In Rhode Island, the draft plans calls for kindergarten and first grade returning in person on August 31, with other grades starting remote on that date and returning for in-person on September 15. In Connecticut, all grades will start remote on September 1 or 2 and in-person learning will be phased in starting on September 15. In New York, all grades will start remote on September 1 or 2 and in person will start no sooner than September 15.

Ms. Toll reviewed a sample schedule for in-person and remote, for elementary, middle and high school. She also reviewed the timeline for each state for gathering input on the plans, sharing them with families, collecting responses on whether they want in-person or remote, and school-specific follow up with families.

IV. Discussion and Business
   A. Discussion with Regional Superintendents
Christina Ellington, regional superintendent for Elm City College Prep Elementary, introduced herself and her background at AF. She is working with Shanice Adams who Ms. Ellington originally hired as a dean when she was principal at AF Bridgeport Elementary.

Ms. Ellington is focusing on the following two priorities.
1. Staff org health: is the principal really aware of how people are doing?
2. Parent engagement: surveys went out last week to determine whether families want to continue remote or come back to in-person school as of September 21st.

ECCP is at 74% response from families on the survey. Currently 61% want to continue with remote after September 21st. about 16% want four days of in person instruction. 20% are flexible/hybrid where students come in two days (Monday/Tuesday or Thursday/Friday).

The board discussed policies around families taking children’s temperatures before school, considerations for when classrooms, grades or schools would shut down if/when positive cases arise.

Riley Bauling introduced himself. He was originally a math teacher in Brooklyn, then a dean and principal. He shared that the leadership team at ECCP Middle School is strong. He has multiple touchpoints with Ashia Parks each week. Together they’ve been working on the following priorities:

1. Heathy and effective leadership team
2. Excellent execution of summer PD
   a. Tons of connection, love and care for one another as teammates
   b. Strong family outreach – understand families interests
   c. A strong plan for remote instruction
3. Clear remote learning vision and training for teachers

Riley is meeting one-on-one with every teacher and heard consistent excitement about Ms. Parks. Feedback from teachers has been 100% agree or strongly agree with the strength and impact of the summer PD.

71% of families have responded thus far to the parent survey about what options they were interested in for the school year. 70% indicated they want a remote option which would be the 6-8 week period after the all-remote start to the year. They also heard from many families that they want more time to connect with teachers. There will be a daily advisory (25 min), and on Fridays a 45 minute grade-wide block for building connection and community. Families also wanted for enrichment even in a remote environment.

B. Board chair report

The board discussed the categories in the annual CMO evaluation. Each topic was covered. The board emphasized the importance of receiving the PGP or some annual evaluation in advance of the annual contract renewal.

Ken Paul updated the board on the fundraising goals for this year.

The board gave the highest ratings in each category.

Dick Ferguson asked the board to complete their conflict of interest disclosure forms and send them to Sarah Blanton.

   Julia Halberstam, Vice Chair

V. Discussion and Business
A. Principal Reports
Riley Bauling, regional superintendent, updated the board on behalf of Ms. Ashia Parks who was unable to attend the meeting. Elm City Middle School’s priorities have been to ensure strong, impactful summer professional development and the execution of a strong vision for remote instruction.

Attendance is around 90 percent. Based on observations on remote classes, the energy is good. The Leadership Team is unified in their vision for the school and there is a lot of trust and alignment in service of scholars. Mr. Bauling and Ms. Parks are working on coaching deans and driving strong instruction.

Ms. Shanice Adams, Elm City Elementary School principal, shared that the priorities are safety and happiness. She highlighted several moments of connecting with families and scholars. The first few days of remote learning were spent on getting to know one another.

The family survey showed that 22% of families want in-person instruction once the option is available. Ms. Adams shared the breakdown of staffing needed to meet the needs of in-person instruction at that level. The second phase of hybrid learning will be in October which will involve another survey to families and another round of staff assignments. Most staff are remote. Only those involved in live teaching would be in the building.

Attendance is 92% and student retention was 96% from last year to this year.

The building construction has been going well and the operations team is working hard to make sure that scholars will be able to be safely distanced when they return.

Christina Ellington shared that she’s proud of the leadership team. She has attended staff meetings and often heard praise for the leadership team.

B. Joint High School Committee Report
Dick Ferguson gave the updated Elm City Board on the Amistad High School Committee. 83% of families elected to continue remote learning once in-person instruction is available. There are two fewer AP science courses but two new additional AP courses offered (AP Computer Science and AP Art). Teacher PD is still happening on the same schedule as always – just remote instead of in-person.

C. Treasurer Report
Laura Saverin discussed the proposed budget amendment that takes into consideration certain cuts based on COVID. The balance sheet is in a strong position. Ms. Saverin reviewed changes to the PPP loan.
Ken Paul spoke about philanthropy and highlighted the support of the PCLB Foundation.

Ms. Saverin gave an overview of the debt structure and the desire to consolidate the debt facility. There is a need for a bridge loan to replenish the cash for the elementary and middle school work at James Street. Victor De La Paz provided additional context and answered questions from the board about the loan and the Dixwell Avenue property which is on the market.

RESOLVED, the Elm City College Preparatory Board of Directors hereby approves the amended budget as recommended by the Finance Committee and prepared by Achievement First for the 2020-21 fiscal year.

IV. Discussion and Business
A. Principal Reports
The Elm City College Preparatory Elementary School team is preparing to go back to fully remote.

Ms. Shanice Adams, ECCP Elementary School principal, shared some images from the Zoom classes emphasizing the focus on belief and belonging. Most classes have 14-15 scholars in a
Ms. Adams shared organizational health data and student climate results. They have been prioritizing the student experience and the student investment survey results were positive, with strong year over year improvement around belief and belonging, and teacher relationships.

Ms. Adams noted that they have not seen any significant backsliding in reading skills and they are looking ahead to ensure that reading groups meet the needs for scholars during remote learning.

Ms. Ashia Parks, Elm City College Prep Middle School principal, shared with the board the strong work the school did around social emotional learning. They’ve been trying to highlight top quality work as well as instill a sense of belief and belonging. She shared feedback from the student investment survey. Students report very high overall favorability around feeling safe and that they feel like they belong.

There was a mini adult pulse survey. The school is proud of the results some of which are up 15 points or more from the spring survey (staff feeling positively about working at ECCP MS, learning and developing in their roles and being able to do what they do best every day). There are areas where Ms. Parks named that they need to address, especially around staff morale which is considerably lower than the positive feeling that individuals have working at ECCP MS. Ms. Parks attributes this to the many changes the team has had to face: the new leadership team, new principal, hybrid learning, shifting from two to four grades.

Attendance looked strong in the first week of school, as measured by the percentage of scholars attending classes each day. However, as they’ve examined whether students are attending every class every day, the attendance was not as strong. This is concerning given the extent that it correlates with work completion.

The school is providing weekly progress reports.

Ms. Parks believes that because most families have opted for remote learning during chapter one, and because the number one priority is safety for scholars and staff, she believes that the change to fully remote is going to be smooth.

B. Joint High School Committee Report

Dick Ferguson gave the Joint High School Committee report noting enrollment and college application data, and organizational health results. He shared the experience reported by Mr. Obas about remote learning and the hybrid experience which are remarkably similar because of in-person instruction at the high school often happening via Zoom.

28 students have applied to college, 22 of whom applied early decision.

C. Treasurer Report
Laura Saverin shared that all three schools are expecting break even budgets, given the updated budget approved at the last meeting. Enrollment is solid due to low attrition. The cash position is strong because per pupil funding came in since the last meeting.

RESOLVED, the Elm City College Preparatory Board of Directors hereby approves the financial report as presented.

   Seconded by Julia Halberstam

D. Introduction to Rich Buery
Dacia Toll joined the meeting to talk about her transition out of the CEO role. Rich Buery was introduced as the new President and the individual who will go through a validation process to be considered as her successor. The board asked Rich and Dacia questions about the path ahead and the ways in which they are thinking about ensuring stability and strength.

Ms. Adams reviewed academic data including reading goals and results (growth and absolute), as well as the strategic plan the leadership team is taking to improve results.

Attendance is strong (93%) but the school is seeing trends in chronic absenteeism and making a plan for try to get those scholars back online. Teacher retention is expected to be very strong (89%).

Ashia Parks, Elm City Middle School principal, shared organizational health results and student investment and parent survey results. She reflected on where/why they have been successful and where they are focusing on continuing to push for improvement and build skill.

Academically, they have just finished the second trimester and have started the third trimester. This week there are math assessments and report card nights. She shared that ELA results are outperforming results in STEM courses in internal assessments. They are preparing for state assessments.
